Nerf wars

The Winkler Centennial Library held its latest Nerf battle night last week, giving the young and young at heart the chance to hide amongst the book stacks, toy blasters in hand. It's part of the South Central Regional Library's focus over the past year on increasing its programming. For the full story, see Pg. 4.

Winkler Library hosting 'crochet-a-thon' Jan. 30

By Ashleigh Viveiros

Calling all crocheters: the Winkler Centennial Library needs your help for their first Warmth in Winter crochet-a-thon next week.

On Tuesday, Jan. 30 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., the South Central Regional Library branch invites anyone who is handy with crochet needles and yarn to stop by to help put together afghans for patients at Eden Health Care Centre. "This is both a new thing and kind of an expansion of something we've been doing for awhile," explains library clerk Linda Funk.

"Starting about 2017, we put out a basket with yarn and knitting needles and crochet hooks in our reading area and we encouraged people to knit and crochet a little bit to create squares that we could assemble into afghans for the Eden mental health centre's patient programs."

They also invited people to drop off finished squares for the project, which has resulted in the donation of several finished blankets over the past few years.

Now they're ramping things up with the 10-hour crochet-a-thon.

"We thought let's see what happens if we put out a call to the community to take a day, or even part of the day, to just come out and crochet together," Funk says. "Let's see how many squares we can come up with and what we can do for Eden."

Supplies of yarn and needles will be available at the library.

"So people just have to bring themselves and their skills," Funk says, adding that pre-registration is not required—simply pop by when you have some time that day.

If you can't make it next week, you can still participate by dropping off donations of yarn, afghan squares, or even finished afghans at the library anytime before or after the event.

Many people have struggled with mental health challenges in their lives, Funk says, noting this is a way to bring "a touch of comfort" to people walking that path at Eden today.

City of Morden looking for public input at open house

By Lorne Stelmach

The City of Morden is working on a new strategic plan and wants the public's input.

An open house is being held next Tuesday to engage residents and seek their feedback in the development of the new plan.

The aim is to address key opportunities and challenges faced by the city and identify short and long term priorities for council, city administration, and the community as a whole.

"It's their tax dollars that the city is investing ... so how can we put their needs to best use?" said Mayor Nancy Penner. "What's the big picture vision for our city? How can we be a growing, vibrant community?"

Penner said they want to ensure the sustainability of services that align with the needs and expectations of its residents.

The primary objective is to gain a deeper understanding of the community's vision and the city's role in achieving that vision. Additionally, the aim is to capture essential factors that should be considered for a successful implementation of the plan.

"We want to have their input into what they want to see from our city," reiterated Penner. "Not only are we planning for today, we're planning for 20 years out.

"We need our residents to be visionary and help us plan for the future. We need the public's input. We need to know what's important to them."

The City of Morden has engaged in strategic plan development in collaboration with KPMG, and it hopes the open house will provide valuable insights into the plan development process.

The public open house runs from 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 30 at the Morden civic centre.

to seek input for the development of a new strategic plan. The plan aims to address challenges and identify priorities for Council and the community.

The open house will be from 6-8 pm at the Morden Civic Centre (Council Chambers), 195 Stephen Street.

The City encourages residents to attend and share their vision for the community's future.

Nordic club starts up weekly community ski night

By Lorne Stelmach

A community group is aiming to get more people out to enjoy cross country skiing this winter.

The Boundary Trails Nordic Club and Country Cycle are holding weekly community ski nights at the Burwalde Nordic Centre on Highway 3.

They are especially hoping to get more adults out skiing, but the ski nights that started last Thursday at 8 p.m. are open to all ages.

"We've been wanting to get more adults into skiing and kind of grow our community. The thought was if we have a night where people felt safe and welcome to learn," said Luke Broadland, shop manager at Country Cycle and a board member of the Boundary Trails Nordic Club. "A lot of time, there's kid's programs, but there isn't a lot of programming in sports for adults."

They hope it will be an easy and welcoming environment for people to learn or improve their skiing skills.

"It's a place where people can ask questions, and we'll have a bit of a structured time at the start to give some skill-based instruction and do some things to help people learn and improve," said Broadland. "We'll go for a ski together and then have snacks in the cabin by fireside and candlelight, because it's an off-grid cabin."

"There's lots of people out there who have skied for years ... maybe they would like to improve but they don't really have the space to do it," he said. "It's completely wide open to the community. All ages are definitely welcome."

He suggested Burwalde is an ideal place for people to learn or develop their skiing skills.

"It has about 20 kilometres of trail, so it's definitely a really good place to start," said Broadland, who noted people might want to bring along a head lamp for light.

"There's very few hills ... there's a few creek crossings and that kind of thing, but it's nice and flat, so it's a great starting place," he said. "It's all very close; the main trail system is all pretty close to the yard site, so as far as safety, it's really good."

The ski nights could also provide a boost for the nordic club by further increasing its membership.

"It's always dependent a little bit on snow and the conditions, but there is a good skiing community here," said Broadland, who pointed out that people can rent equipment at Country Cycle in Winkler and call there for more information.

He encourages people to come out some evening if they are at all interested.

"We're going to be doing it every week now. The plan is for the rest of the winter, unless there may be the odd week we miss because of the weather perhaps," he concluded. "It's good for motivation, to get out in winter. It's often kind of hard for us all to get motivated when it's a little cooler out."

SCRL stats have bounced back to pre-COVID levels

By Lorne Stelmach

The past year largely marked a return to normal for the South Central Regional Library.

The library network with branches in Winkler, Morden, Altona, Miami and Manitou of course did face controversy around protests concerning certain content on their shelves, but they otherwise saw library use rebound post-pandemic.

"We're finally back to our pre-COVID numbers ... it's good to see," said director of library services Cathy Ching.

She noted there were approximately 280,500 check-outs overall in 2023, an increase of about 9,000 from the previous year.

"A lot of that was due to a tremendously successful summer reading program," Ching said. "We had about 2,200 kids participating, so that's a good thing to see as well."

"With all the stuff going on in the past year where people were concerned about what was in our libraries, it didn't scare people away," she added. "We've had almost 1,200 new members get cards ... so people are still coming, and especially our newcomers in our communities are using our libraries."

Ching wondered if people perhaps were recognizing the importance of supporting their local library.

"I think when it was threatened, it really brought people in, first of all, to see what all the fuss was about and then ensure that things didn't get removed," she said.

"What we are finding as well though is that some branches are really benefiting from the newcomer communities," continued Ching, while noting the Morden branch perhaps has seen some lower numbers particularly related to newcomers now going more to the 500 Stephen Community Centre right next door. "I think it has given newcomers a place to go when it perhaps used to be the library. It's definitely changed what's been going on in the Morden branch, but having 500 Stephen is a good thing for the community."

Ching also highlighted how all of their branch staff have been doing a great job of trying to really boost programming again.

"I think, across the board for all of our branches, we do an amazing job with programming and stuff, but we've kind of lost our connection with some of our home school families ... we need to set up stuff for them," she said. "So a direction we might go for is to try to encourage them to come use our libraries as a field trip day of sorts."

"It's not anything outside the box. It's more going back to the basics," Ching continued. "Give them what they maybe use to have ... we need to show we have stuff to offer again.

Programming, such as the regular Nerf battles at the Winkler library, has really been ramping up at SCRL's branches over the past year.

"We've had some great programming," she noted of the past several months. "We had a lot of local authors who are contacting us to do readings, which is great. What a great way to get to know your communities and people to get to know the authors."

The Winkler branch has also promoted a new astronomy club led by a local resident with a high-quality telescope who has led several sky viewings for the public. Another unique initiative has been the Nerf battles held once a month at the branch.

"I think, just before Christmas, they had 22 people in there, and I think the adults had more fun than the kids," said Ching.

She also noted how they have added to their diversity of material that can be loaned out, including some 700 puzzles across the five branches.

"We have a huge board game collection. We purchased about 150 new board games, and we bought some locally," Ching added. "We have the expensive ones that everybody has wanted to try but doesn't want to put the money out, so you can check out a board game for three weeks."

Looking ahead, Ching shared that they are beginning to think of plans to mark SCRL's 60 anniversary in 2025.

"We are going to work throughout the year to start working towards a celebration of some sort for a big event. That's something we are looking forward to," she said.

"We are thinking maybe we can have some sort of fundraiser and possibly by ourselves a van or something that we can move books around in," Ching added. "Right now, when we need to move books, we haul them in our little vehicles and drive back and forth."

As well, they will partner with Morden Fire and Rescue on the large annual book sale this spring.

"We're going to have the book sale on the same weekend as the quilt show this year ... so we're looking forward to that as well."

Single-family housing starts down across the region

By Lorne Stelmach

Economic conditions are likely behind the drop in new housing starts across the region in the past year.

Year-end building permit statistics for 2023 reflect that decline in both of the south central region's two planning districts.

"A lot of doors are still getting built but not so much in the single-family market," said Glen Wieler, general manager of the MSTW (Morden Stanley Thompson Winkler) Planning District. "That seems to be a regional trend ... it's not just a MSTW territory reality ... it's just what's happening."

"I think the economics are just flattening out the incentive to build," agreed Tanya Waddell, general manager of the RPGA (Rhineland, Plum Coulee, Gretna and Altona) Planning District.

In Winkler, permits for new single-family housing starts were down from 34 to 18, although the value of the development was up from $6.5 million to $8.1 million.

New multi-family starts were down from six to three, while new duplexes however were up from 10 to 17 and accounted for $11.4 million in development value.

Morden saw new residential single-family starts drop from 20 to only six, and the value dropped also from $5.3 million to just under $2.4 million. New multi-family developments remained steady at four permits, while new duplex units were down from six to two.

New single-family housing starts were down from 21 to 11 in the RM of Stanley, although the value was up from $4.7 million to $5.3 million.

In Altona, new single housing starts decreased from 24 to 14 with a corresponding drop in value from $9.1 million to $5.6 million. Permits for other residential related development rose from 16 to 21, and the value doubled to $1.4 million.

The RM of Rhineland saw an increase in new single housing starts from seven to 12 with an increase in value from $1.5 million to $5.1 million. Other residential related development however had plummeted from 61 to 14 with a large drop in value from $10.3 million to $1.6 million.

"Things seem to be moving more towards multi-family. Inquiries are more about multi-family than single-family," said Waddell.

"I think it's getting too expensive, and the demand is not there," she continued. "It's quite expensive to build a single-family house now and even a smaller one is quite expensive."

"During the last few years, with COVID and stuff, I think that really inflated some of the numbers. There were a lot of people spending money on improving their own yards and homes ... that really increased the building permit numbers for a couple years until the interest rates went up, and the cost of building went up."

"The number of permits that we've had over the last year is very similar as in previous years, but the single-family housing has dropped. You're seeing more multi-family housing like the duplex, fourplex, eight and twelve unit," said Wieler.

"I think interest rates have a lot to do with it and just the cost of a new house today ... I don't think $350,000 would buy you a new house anymore."

In Winkler, building permits overall increased from 185 to 192, and the value also jumped from $43.1 million to $75.3 million.

New institutional permits remained steady at just three, while there was no change as well in new industrial development with just four.

New industrial improvements however increased from two to ten, and the value was up from under $100,000 to over $26.7 million. New commercial permits were down slightly from 25 to 22, although the value was up from $6.6 million to $13.1 million.

Morden saw total permits down from 111 to 96, but the value however was up substantially from $25.6 million to $69 million.

There was a significant boost from construction of the new École Discovery Trails school, which is reflected in the institutional category where just three permits carried a value of $49 million.

New industrial development was down from three to one permit $4.6 million to $800,000, while new commercial development had an increase from seven to 18 with a jump in value from $1.7 million to $6 million.

In the RM of Stanley, there was an overall decrease from 114 to 102 permits, but the value shot up to $93.5 million from $20.2 million. The municipality was boosted by the expansion of the Boundary Trails Health Centre

Stanley has seen a large increase in the value of new commercial development. Although permits decreased from 12 to 9, the value shot up from $6.1 million to almost $80 million.

In the RM of Thompson, building permits were down overall from 25 to 22 with a corresponding decrease in value from $2.9 million to $1.7 million

Altona overall saw building permits decline from 50 to 42, and the value also dropped from $11.5 million to almost $8.9 million. Commercial permits were down from 10 to seven, but the value went up from $1.6 million to $1.7 million.

In the RM of Rhineland, permits overall were down substantially from 75 to 30 with a drop in value from $13 million to $7.5 million. Commercial permits also decreased from seven to four with the value also down from $1.1 million to $690,000.

Other permits including such development as industrial and institutional were up from six to 22, and the value also jumped from $1.9 million to $23.7 million.

There is optimism that development overall will continue to pick up in 2024.

"We've got some big projects in the region happening," said Wieler. "There's lots of stuff going on outside of housing. We anticipate that is going to continue this year."

"I think multi-family will continue to pick up more than single-family," said Waddell. "We've also got a couple industrial parks we're hoping will develop some more and bring some more investment into the communities."

Candlewick presents 'Busybody'

By Lorne Stelmach

The Candlewick Players are dipping back into a favourite genre again for their annual Valentine's Day theatre production.

They will be presenting Busybody, which is a British comedy thriller set in the '60s, and assistant director Chuck Fefchak says it promises to delight.

"The appeal of the play is that it's a funny one obviously," said Fefchak, who has a personal affinity to it from having been part of a production of Busybody when he first got involved in theatre years ago.

"A British comedy has various appeals, not the least of which is the accents and the concept of different sayings that we in North America don't use as often," he added. "With a murder mystery, the reveal is at the end, as one would expect, so it keeps the audience engaged."

This comedy centers on a voluble

Habits

If you've ever signed up for the weight loss program Noom, they ask you all these questions at the beginning to put together a customized plan.

Then there's a quiz to test whether you were paying attention. One of the questions was, "What do you need to do to achieve your weight loss goal?" Of the multiple choices listed I picked, "eat salads at lunchtime," and instead of telling me I was wrong, they said, "Almost!" Noom said the biggest factor in me achieving my weight loss goal was actually believing I could do it; because if you believe that you will achieve your goal, ultimately, you'll figure it out.

When it comes to your goals and where you want to see improvement in your life, how important is the belief that you can do it? I think the folks at Noom are probably onto something! But here's the thing, the very next thing the program did had nothing to do with how strong my belief was, but it was all about creating a system of habits. Terry, do you believe you can achieve your goal? Yes? Then here's how we're going to get you there...

Sean Covey says, "Our habits will make us or break us. We become what we repeatedly do." I've been thinking about this quote particularly from the context of relationships. My relationship with my wife, my co-workers, my church, my God. Every healthy relationship needs consistency and rhythms of connection to flourish. We become what we repeatedly do.

By Terry Dueck

One of the main writers of the New Testament, the apostle Paul, was no stranger in struggling to build good habits into his life. In his letter to the church in Rome, Paul pours out his heart, his frustrations, his longing to be better, and his words have resonated with believers across the centuries. He shares this tension between his desire to do good, and his relentless propensity to fall short. "I don't really understand myself, for I want to do what is right, but I don't do it. Instead, I do what I hate...I know that nothing good lives in me, that is, in my sinful nature. I want to do what is right, but I can't. I want to do what is good, but I don't. I don't want to do what is wrong, but I do it anyway." You can understand why people have resonated with these words!

Paul goes onto to write, "I love God's law with all my heart. But there is another power, another law within me that is at war with my mind. This power, this law makes me a slave to the sin that is still within me."

And then he asks this question, "Who will free me from this life that is dominated by sin and death?" And he looks to the only source, the only one who can truly change him, and he writes this wonderful proclamation of faith, "Thank God! The answer is in Jesus Christ our Lord."

I think what Paul is describing here is that for who put their trust in Jesus and his power to change, we have been given everything we need to defeat sin, we are free from its captivity, but not the war. In other words, we're still going to have to battle bad habits.

James Clear in his book Atomic Habits writes this: "You don't rise to the level of your goals, you fall to the level of your systems." Goals aren't enough. If you want to grow and be better, whether that's in your health, relationships, or faith, goals aren't enough, you need to develop good habits. We become what we repeatedly do!

Jan 12 was quitters day—the day most people give up on their new year resolutions. I think we most often fail in our good intentions because we don't see progress fast enough. We wrongly conclude that small good decisions don't matter that much; or the flip-side, that small bad decisions don't matter that much either. I want to encourage this year to not give up on change! Small consistent habits really can lead to big change in your life.

Take this ancient advice from Paul, "So let's not get tired of doing what is good. At just the right time we will reap of harvest of blessing if we don't give up."

—Terry Dueck is the lead pastor at the Winkler MB Church

PVLIP cultural celebration night is coming up

Party takes place at Altona's Community Exchange Feb. 22

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The Pembina Valley Local Immigration Partnership hosts its fourth annual Connecting Cultures and Community Celebration in Altona next month.

The event serves to shine a spotlight on the agency's activities over the past year while also providing a chance for people to get together and celebrate the growing diversity of our region, says PVLIP coordinator Elaine Burton Saindon.

"This year we're hosting it in a new community that we haven't been able to be super active in to date," she says, noting that's changing with the hiring of staff who will work out of Altona three days a week moving forward. "We're super excited that we were able to expand our program there."

This year's celebration takes place at The Community Exchange (116 Main St.) on Thursday, Feb. 22 from 6:30-9 p.m.

"It was the perfect fit for us," Burton Saindon says of the community centre, which hosts an evening that will feature a buffet meal from Potpourri of Flavours, local musicians, and dancers. "We want to highlight as much local culture and talent as possible."

Raising awareness about PVLIP's mission is a big part of the night, Burton Saindon says, stressing the evening is open to anyone interested in learning more or simply enjoying a fun cultural night out.

"Our main feature of it is usually to help attendees understand better what it is we do," she says.

The organization is tasked with helping to create welcoming and inclusive communities by developing various projects and supports in partnership with local stakeholders and newcomers alike.

"A lot of our efforts are about hearing the stories or the lived experiences of those in our region," notes Burton Saindon. "This evening is one way to share that."

"It's primarily for the general public, and any employers or other people who have heard or seen some of the resources that we've developed over the years and want to know a little bit more about what we can do to promote their own connection to either a multicultural workplace or how to get involved volunteering, how to just be a good neighbour to people who might be living within your network or down your street."

Admission to the celebration is free, though attendees are asked to bring a donation for the Rhineland Area Food Bank.

You also need to pre-register for your ticket, as space is limited. A link to the event's registration page is available at pvlip.ca.

A THANK-YOU TO THE COMMUNITY

As the holiday season is behind us for another year, it is a great time to sit down and reflect on the season and recognize how much our community steps up to help one another out.

It may seem redundant to continually voice, but year after year we are truly overwhelmed by the generosity and support provided to ensure Christmas Cheer can continue to operate. It invokes a deep sense of pride to call this place home.

On behalf of the Morden Christmas Cheer Board, we would like to extend a massive thank you to everyone for making our 2023 season so successful! Through your generosity and community support we were able to deliver 364 hampers and make the holiday season a little more bright for over 1,000 people.

Thank you to everyone who organized events, volunteered their time, promoted events in support of Morden Christmas Cheer, attended fundraising events, and/or donated items and money to go directly into filling the hampers. It truly takes a community and we can't express the amount of gratitude we have towards this wonderful community of ours. Thank you!

cleaning woman who keeps telling the cops how to mind their business and who steps forward with the right evidence in every pinch.

She lives in the basement of the office building she cleans and one night finds a body. By the time the police arrive, there is no body and no evidence. The wrong alarms are sent out, murdered men turn up alive, and the whole thing is chalked up to the cleaning woman's imagination until an unidentified body is discovered on a distant hill and the cleaning woman uncovers more evidence in the course of her duties.

Candlewick is offering the option of enjoying the production either on its own or as a dinner theatre presentation. The latter is always an interesting variation for the cast and crew, said Fefchak.

"Dinner theatre tends to be quite enjoyable because in between acts one gets to interact with the patrons while staying in character, so it's fun for the actors and the audience," he said. "But because of that, it is more work. You don't get as big of a recuperation time between acts."

"Valentine's is more of a classic dinner theatre as compared to the Christmas version," he suggested. "Christmas dinner theatre is theatre in the round, and you're literally staring at someone's entrée while on stage. The Valentines theatre in Manitou doesn't have patrons up on stage. The cast interacting between acts is something that many Manitou patrons love."

The dinner theatre presentation is at the Manitou Opera House Friday, Feb. 9 and Saturday, Feb. 10 at 6:30 p.m.

The theatre-only presentation is at the Kenmor Theatre in Morden Friday, Feb. 16 and Saturday, Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 18 at 3:30 p.m.

Tickets can be reserved online at www.candlewick.ca by clicking on the CW Players tab or calling 204-822-7469.

Bruce gets an upgrade

CFDC uses its new 3D printer to create a more accurate fossil display

By Lorne Stelmach

The most famous resident of the Canadian Fossil Discovery Centre collection has undergone a bit of cosmetic surgery.

The lifesize replica of Bruce the mosasaur has had some pieces of its skull replaced with more accurate pieces, a project that became possible with the museum now owning a high quality 3D printing system.

It is a good example of the possibilities that are opened up now through the 3D printing, said executive director Adolfo Cuetara.

"It allows us to do things that were impossible before," he said. "We could still do some traditional silicon molds ... but a problem with the silicon mold is the bone is very fragile. It is a tough process for the bone, and you can damage the bone in the process."

"With the 3D scanning, you are not handling the bone, and it is super accurate and super precise," Cuetara continued. "You can print hollow replicas that are very lightweight ... and you can work easily with them."

It is fitting to give Bruce some work now in the 50th anniversary of the year when he was discovered at a site just north of Thornhill.

The replica on display in the museum was made about 25 years ago. With a few fossil pieces missing, Cuetara noted there was some guesswork in a few areas, leading to some parts not being as accurate as they could be.

Today, with the benefit of being able to compare to other fossils, they have a better idea of how it all should look, and they now have the capabilities to finish it off more completely and accurately with their 3D printer.

"Bruce's replica is a good replica, and it always was, but we are trying now to improve it with a few of the details we now have about it," said Cuetara.

They've 3D scanned and printed the proper right and left quadrate bones and replaced the old incorrect pieces of Bruce's skull.

The quadrates are very distinctive bones in mosasaur skulls, Cuetara noted, connecting the lower jaw with the rest of the skull. The quadrates were independently movable in all mosasaurs and acted to protract and retract the lower jaws, providing those marine reptiles a very effective way to grab and swallow big preys.

"We disassembled the skull from the replica and took it apart ... now the skull is looking more accurate like how it should be," Cuetara explained. "In the future, we will be completing all of that ... the idea is just to keep what is good and to improve where it is needed."

They are now also working on scanning part of another famous fossil of the same species as Bruce: the tylosaurus peminensis specimen on display in the Miami Museum.

"We are scanning the skull from this specimen from Miami through the 3D printing and completing the bones that are missing using another specimen," said Cuetara. "What we will have at the end is the very first accurate reconstruction of the whole skull of a tylosaurus peminensis. It's going to be a very good complement to the Bruce exhibit."

Given it is now 50 years since the discovery of Bruce, Cuetara noted they are making some special plans to mark the occasion this year.

"We are preparing a few events, probably for late spring depending on the melting and how it is going with the terrain," he said. "It is going to be a surprise. We want to wait until that time, but it's something that is connecting again with the land where Bruce was found."

"We are also preparing a few documents. We are researching the history of what happened at that time," he concluded. "It's really something that we need to tell people, to know the story of Bruce because he has a very unique story."

Winkler Heritage Soc. puts out urgent call for help

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The future of the Winkler Heritage Society is in doubt unless more people step up to take a leadership role with the organization.

The society is struggling to recover in the wake of the death of board chair Randy Rietze last fall.

"He was our champion," says Joe Bergen, curator of the Winkler Heritage Museum. "He was perfect for the position. He knew the community. He loved the history. And he took on whatever needed to be done. He very much believed that all this was important."

"All this" being the preservation of Winkler's history, be it through artifact displays and genealogical services at the museum located in the Southland Mall, document preservation at the Winkler Archives in the Winkler Centennial Library, or educational campaigns such as the stories showcased in the society's Heritage Highlights newsletter or its Stones and Stories project, which compiles the life stories of people buried in the Winkler cemeteries.

Since Rietze's passing, John Epp has stepped up to serve as acting board chair on a temporary basis. Other board and committee members include Bergen, Tonille Peters, Ed Falk, Dora Hildebrand, Marie Doell, and Marjorie Hildebrand.

"Some of those aren't technically board members," Bergen points out, but these are the people doing all the heavy lifting when it comes to the behind-the-scenes work of the society.

While the loss of Rietze's drive and enthusiasm has been keenly felt this winter, the fact is the heritage society has been struggling for years to get more fresh blood involved.

Many of the participating volunteers have been involved for decades, and nearly all are in or are nearing their 80s and 90s. One longtime volunteer, Helen Falk, only stepped back a few years ago after she turned 100.

"We have the most amazing volunteers, we really do," Bergen says. "But we really don't want them to feel like they have to stay until they're 100. We would like to give them a break before that."

The group, on the whole, is ready to pass the torch on to the next generation—but no one is stepping up to grab it.

"We need a new chair, a new vice-chair, more board members," says Bergen. "We want to have a fundraising committee, a grants committee—people who can really take charge of these things."

PRESERVING HISTORY

Ed Falk, who mans the Winkler Archives, has been involved with the society since its inception in 1999.

It was formed by a group of community members who were passionate about preserving local history.

In its first few years of operation, Falk shares, the society spearheaded the erection of multiple cairns around town (they can today all be found in Bethel Heritage Park) honouring Winkler's Jewish and German settlers and the 1876 Hoffnungfeld pioneers.

They had a hand in a number of Winkler Centennial projects, including a quilt, a pictorial calendar, and an in-depth history book.

They also got the archives set up in the new library building in 2007 and welcomed the addition of the museum in the mall in 2011.

In those early years, the society had a robust group of dedicated people leading the charge, Falk recalls, but they were most all of them older volunteers back then already.

"There were people that came along with all sorts of ideas, but then they pass away. They're gone, and it's hard to replace them.

"I don't know what to do about it," Falk says, acknowledging they're certainly not the only non-profit agency struggling to find volunteers.

He feels the society still has an important role to play. Local history—newspapers, photographs, important documents—still need to be preserved.

"I just got a couple of documents the other day that were 99 years old. If we don't have a place for them, then we lose that stuff forever."

When people stop by the archives on the hunt for a part of their own family's history, they're often surprised at just how much is packed into the small room. Most people, Falk laments, aren't even aware it's been there for the past 17 years.

"That needs to change," he says. The real question is, how?

Winkler Police investigating grandparent scam

By Voice staff

Winkler Police are investigating after a local grandfather was scammed out of thousands of dollars.

Police say the man received a phone call from a woman claiming to be his granddaughter. She told him she was in police custody after hitting a pedestrian with her vehicle and that she required money for bail.

The victim was then contacted by various people claiming to be court officials who seemingly corroborated the initial caller's story.

Convinced that his granddaughter needed help, the victim cooperated with the suspects and agreed to provide money. A female suspect came to the victim's Winkler home and was given several thousand dollars by the victim.

After turning over the money, the man became suspicious and contacted his granddaughter. He learned she had not been arrested, confirming he had been scammed.

Police were able to obtain partial surveillance camera footage of the female suspect, who was described as heavier and of average height, wearing a dark coat and a scarf covering her face.

Police are asking anyone with information as to the identity of this woman, or any other information that might pertain to this case, to call them at 204-325-0829.

Applications open for Gordon Wiebe scholarships

By Voice staff

The Winkler Community Foundation (WCF) has a new online presence just in time for the annual application period of its Gordon Wiebe Scholarships program.

WCF announced last week that its newly redesigned website (winklercommunityfoundation.com) makes it easier for visitors to learn more about the foundation and its work, how you can start your own endowment fund, and, of course, how to apply for part of the more than $100,000 in scholarship funding available to Winkler area students for the year ahead.

The foundation has granted out over $1.3 million in community grants and scholarships over the last five years.

"The students in our community are so fortunate to have been blessed by Gordon Wiebe's gift," said scholarship committee chair Barb Neufeld. "It was his desire to support and ease the financial burden of young people pursuing post-secondary education by creating a scholarship fund."

Wiebe left $2.2 million to WCF to create the endowment fund that bears his name.

"His generosity has assisted many young people in this community over the past eight years," Neufeld noted. "We are grateful for this ongoing scholarship fund and trust that those who are supported in this way find ways to 'pay it forward' in the future."

There are a variety of scholarship available for locals 35 years or younger looking to pursue post-secondary education, including the $25,000 Make It a Reality Award and the $2,000 Ongoing Education Support Award (renewable for up to two times). Applications for these awards are due in by Feb. 28.

WCF also provides awards to Garden Valley Collegiate and Northlands Parkway Collegiate for graduating students. Those applications are available through the school guidance offices.

Archives, heritage museum need a new home

They say bad news comes in threes, and the society's current situation is certainly bearing that out.

In addition to losing Rietze, they've also been given notice that their space in the Winkler library will not be available to them after October. The Winkler Archives need to find a new home.

So does the museum. With the major renovations the mall has planned over the next couple of years as it welcomes Winners and other new retailers to town, it's unlikely they'll be able to afford to remain in the facility.

"It's a gamble right now if there even will be an archives or a museum next year," Bergen says candidly. "December 2024 is when our lease will be up and then the museum has to find a new home, plain and simple."

Their immediate goal is to find a temporary space to house the museum's approximately 5,000 artifacts along with all the documents from the archives.

"But what we really need, long term, is our own building," Bergen says.

It's a project that's been on the society's plate for a few years now, but little headway has been made in finding a suitable location and raising funds to build.

Which circles things back around to the need for volunteers eager to tackle this project and lead the society into the future.

"We need to get the community involved, set a goal, get a campaign going," Bergen says. "There's so many plans that we have ... but we need more help."

Like Falk, Bergen firmly feels the society serves an important purpose in providing year-round access to local historical documents and artifacts and a place where stories that might otherwise be lost can be shared with future generations.

"WE NEED TO GET THE COMMUNITY INVOLVED, SET A GOAL, GET A [FUNDRAISING] CAMPAIGN GOING. THERE'S SO MANY PLANS THAT WE HAVE ... BUT WE NEED HELP."

"The area we cover, we extend almost West Reserve-wide as far as the history of the local villages, the cemeteries, and the churches go," Bergen says. "It's the entire history of the people who made this area what it is."

Bergen would love to see the society's artifacts extend beyond Winkler's predominantly Mennonite roots as well, to begin to tell more stories of the immigrant families who have come to call the community home over the past 20 or 30 years.

"They are a part of the heritage of this area now," she says.

If you'd like to get involved with the Winkler Heritage Society as a volunteer—be that as a leader on the board or even someone willing to give a few hours a week to staff the museum or the archives—stop by the museum Tuesday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Thursday from 7-9 p.m., or Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., or call Bergen at 204-319-0080. You can catch Falk at the Winkler Archives Wednesdays from 3-5 p.m. or call 204-325-8929.

Or go to winklerheritagesociety.ca to learn more about the society's work.

Honoured Monarch CEO praises local employees

By Lorne Stelmach

The leader of Monarch Industries credits the company's Winkler plant for playing a significant role in an honour that came his way recently.

President Mitch Tetrault in fact passed on the praise for the Safety Leadership Award of the Canadian Manufacturers and Exporters (CME) to all of the Monarch employees in the Pembina Valley as well as in Winnipeg.

"At first, I was taken aback," he said last week. "I said it is pretty clear I could only accept this on behalf of our employees ... to me, it's not one individual; it's a team of employees who are dedicated to that vision, that mission, to make safety a priority.

"I was humbled but very focused on this being an employee recognition rather than an individual recognition."

Two Manitoba business leaders and three companies will receive this year's CME awards, which recognize individuals and businesses for their outstanding contribution in achieving world-class benchmarks in the manufacturing industry.

In addition to the Safety Leadership Award for Tetrault, Icon Technologies of Winkler is receiving the Export Award celebrating a company that demonstrates excellence in expanding its market. Representatives of Icon were not available for comment this past week.

The other 2024 CME award recipients include Dickson Gould (The Progressive Group of Companies) with the Hall of Fame Award, Manitoba Co-operative Honey Producers with the Pioneer Award, and Global Drain Technologies with the Emerging Award.

LOCAL LEADERSHIP CREDITED

Tetrault highlighted the plant in Winkler and cited foundry director Joe Castellano for always stressing how they want people to go home the same way they come to work.

"Traditionally, foundries have not been viewed as perhaps historically safe places, but ours is an industry best, in my opinion ... we had, I think it was 480 days without a lost time injury," said Tetrault.

"I credit that 100 per cent to our safety committees, the leadership in Winkler, and when you get a track record like that, it leads to being recognized."

He noted how Monarch had also received a 2023 Safety Excellence in Manufacturing honour by the Safety Association of Manitoba and Made Safe Manitoba in recognition of its operations in both Winnipeg and Winkler.

"Winnipeg's got a phenomenal plant ... laser focused on our safety culture, but I have to recognize Winkler for really stepping up in the past few years and embracing safety as a key priority," said Tetrault.

He recalled them bringing in a third party at one point for an overall assessment, and they created a dashboard of all areas that required attention.

"We started with a long list of things that could hurt somebody potentially but had perhaps never injured anybody," he said. "We took it really seriously, and it took a few years to get to the level we're at now.

"If it makes the list, we dig in and we fix it," Tetrault concluded. "Your actions are better than your words."

The awards will be presented during Manitoba's Manufacturing Week at CME's annual gala dinner March 21.

Deadline nears for school-age programming survey

By Lorne Stelmach

A local initiative is aiming to find new options for providing school-aged child care in Morden.

It arises from the impact of funding that puts the emphasis on pre-school care and which forced a policy change at Pembina Valley Child Care Centre for this coming fall that will leave many parents of school aged children without child care options for before and after school.

The new Morden School Aged Programming Committee has started with a survey that aims to provide data that will help show the level need in the community.

"We're looking for what the community demand is for child care in light of the changes for funding for ages five and up," said Grace Keeling, who chairs the new committee and is also on the Pembina Valley Child Care Centre board. "Our hope was to get the word out to get more input into the survey ... hopefully this will lead to more publicity and funding possibly."

This committee was started as a joint effort involving a subcommittee of Morden's interagency committee and Keeling's work with the Maple Leaf School parent advisory committee.

The committee also includes representatives of Regional Connections, the City of Morden, and other members of the community, with Western School Division and Pembina Valley Child Care Centre having advisory roles with this committee.

It started with a survey for Maple Leaf School to determine the need, and it has expanded from there to examine the issue community-wide.

The survey approaches the issue from a number of points including what the current circumstances are for the respondents, whether they have child care now and what their need will need be to help get an idea of the stresses and challenges being faced by families.

As of last week, the survey had received 160 responses, and 140 of those have school-age children.

The committee is now making a last-minute appeal to get more responses by the Jan. 31 deadline.

Keeling noted there is so much to consider such as even how the lack of school-aged child care can impact their work and earnings.

"We've been talking to family members about how they have to juggle things," she said.

"There's not much programming and resources ... never mind it being affordable," added Keeling, noting they ideally want options that are not only affordable but preferably school-based. "The school is willing to have the space open for programming to happen, but we're looking for someone to actually run it."

Keeling noted there were discus-

Flyers' win streak continues

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The Winkler Flyers added three more games to their win streak last week. The MJHL team hasn't lost a match since before Christmas.

Wednesday's home game against the Winnipeg Freeze saw Winkler take a 4-0 lead in the first period. Tanner George, James Richard, Marek Miller, and Dalton Andrew did the honours.

Winnipeg's Elliot Perreault managed a hat-trick in the second to get his team in the game.

The third period saw Avery Anderson and Zach Nicolas respond for Winkler to make it 6-3 for the home team. The visitors managed just one more, giving the Flyers the win 6-4.

Liam Ernst made 10 saves off 13 shots during his 40 minutes in net for Winkler. Malachi Klassen played 20 minutes and gave up one goal on the eight shots that came his way.

It was a much closer match two nights later when the Flyers welcomed the Selkirk Steelers to town.

The Steelers were up 1-0 after the first period; that score held through to midway through the third when Nicolas finally got Winkler up on the board. A goal from George with less than two minutes left on the clock gave the Flyers the win 2-1.

sen made 21 saves in net.

The team then hit the road Sunday to play the Wolverines in Waywayseecappo.

Winkler took it 4-3 thanks to a pair of goals from Dalton Andrew and singles from George and Jakob Jones. Klassen made 25 saves in net off 28 shots. His teammates fired 31 the other way.

The Flyers are in second place in the MGEU East Division with a record of 28-5-2-2 for 60 points. That puts them five points behind the first-place Steinbach Pistons and five points ahead of the third-place Portage Terriers.

Coming up this week, the Flyers play the Terriers in Portage Wednesday night and then host the Pistons on Friday. On Sunday, they welcome the Wolverines to town.

Hawks struggle with losses against Yellowhead, Westman

By Lorne Stelmach

It was a tough weekend on the road for the female U18 Pembina Valley Hawks as they dropped a pair of games to a couple of the league's top teams.

A 5-1 loss to second-place Yellowhead Saturday was followed by a 6-1 defeat against third-place Westman Sunday.

Pembina Valley trailed 3-0 and 4-1 at the intermissions against Yellowhead in Shoal Lake.

Sophie Armit had the only goal for the Hawks, while Kasia Rakowski made 39 saves as the Hawks were outshot 44 to 34.

Pembina Valley was tied at one with Westman after 20 minutes but then gave up five unanswered goals the rest of the way.

Ava Dalebozik had the lone goal for the Hawks, and Rakowski did her best to keep Pembina Valley in the game in facing 58 shots, including 29 in the third period alone. The Hawks managed 24 shots on goal.

Pembina Valley remains stuck in seventh place at 6-14-4 for 16 points. They are eight ahead of last-place Central Plains and three behind Interlake.

The Hawks have a break from regular league play this week as they take part in a tournament in Headingley. It includes games against Rocky Mountain Riders Thursday followed by Rink Hockey Academy and the Winnipeg Ice Friday.

Their next regular season game is Feb. 3 when they visit the Winnipeg Avros at Seven Oaks.

2024 EDUCATION

SPRING/SUMMER

Getting a great start at Canada's Finest Regional University

BRANDON, Man. – Brandon University is proving that starting small can lead to big things.

Centrally located in Manitoba's second-largest city, BU has about 3,500 students in the Faculties of Arts, Education, Health Studies, Science and the School of Music. Specializing in personalized education, the university offers 19 undergraduate degree programs, six graduate programs and four certificate programs.

"Brandon University is a great place to start your post-secondary educational journey," said Leanne Barcellona, BU's Director of Recruitment and Retention. "We're a smaller school, where students get to know each other and their professors in a friendly, welcoming environment. At the same time, we're able to appeal to a wide variety of people. Some students come here because they want to immediately begin their career following graduation, while others are looking for a strong foundation for further studies. They may be preparing for graduate programs or beginning their undergraduate degree here as a first step before continuing in a specialized program at a larger university."

Education and Health Studies, which has recently expanded to make more spots available in Nursing and Psychiatric Nursing, are two faculties that offer professional programs allowing many BU graduates each year to step into rewarding careers. Manitoba's most comprehensive Co-operative Education program, which was successful in helping every participant in 2023 find employment related to their education, gives Arts and Science students a leg up as they earn while they learn, gaining valuable real-world experience. Brandon University also offers 19 pre-professional programs, allowing students to complete one to three years at BU before seamlessly moving into professional programs at other universities.

"Students face so many choices, that sometimes it's hard for them to know where to start," Barcellona said. "At BU we really make that easier by supporting them every step of the way and letting them know we are here to help.

All it takes is a chat with our academic advisors, who can discuss your interests with you and help you plan out a program to get where you want to go."

Other assistance available to students includes career planning, personal counselling and accessibility services. The Indigenous Peoples' Centre provides a welcoming home-away-from home for many students and the support of Knowledge Keepers, while the Healthy Living Centre is a gateway for wellness and recreation on campus. Extracurricular activities like the Student Leader program and 50 clubs are another way for students to meet new friends and develop new skills and interests.

"I met like-minded individuals from differing programs, connecting with students who are now friends, being able to study through the most difficult courses together, and finding out I was not alone in my journey," said Kim Dunthorne, whose student research was recently featured in BU's Research Connection publication. "It really made a difference, and, more often than not, it was fun."

The opportunity for student research is another one of Brandon University's strengths. Because of its small size, many undergraduate students get the chance to work on projects with world-class researchers that might be limited to only graduate students at larger universities. Recent student research at BU has included projects focusing on cancer detection, environmental protection, mental health, and astronomy.

Brandon University's success is evident in its alumni, who play important leadership roles in their communities, both locally and internationally. The pride is shared by BU alumni, with 93 per cent saying their education prepared them to excel in the workforce, while 98 per cent recommend Brandon University.

All of that is why BU is proud to be Canada's Finest Regional University. Learn more about Brandon University, take a virtual tour, or set up an in-person visit at BrandonU.ca/Future-Students.

CMU graduates chosen for prestigious Manitoba Legislature internships

by Myles Tiessen

Two Canadian Mennonite University (CMU) graduates from the class of 2023 were recently accepted into the highly competitive Manitoba Legislature Internship Program. Willms and, both graduates of 2023, will be a part of the prestigious 10-month internship from September to June.

Open only to six Manitoban students each year, the program provides opportunities for recent university graduates to experience firsthand the legislative process within the Manitoba legislature.

Interns are assigned to work with the incumbent or opposition caucuses, where they participate in various government operations, seminars, and many other legislative processes.

"I'm excited to get wrapped up in the whole energy of the place," says Nicholas Harder. "I'm excited to do this because interns do a lot of different things in a day, and it's very important to me that I have a job that has a variety of tasks."

Kyla Willms is also excited to embrace the consistency of a high-paced full-time position. "I've heard that sometimes the interns will get to the legislature and have a half-hour to write something for the MLAs to say [during legislative assembly]," she says. "I think it'll be a challenge, but also a good challenge."

Regardless of the swirling nerves, Harder and Willms say they feel prepared for the role.

Harder spent his CMU practicum placement with the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives-Manitoba Office, which he says helped him develop skills that will transfer to the internship program. "During [my practicum], I started picking up what other community activists and community researchers are doing and what the socio-political ecosystem is like in Manitoba."

In conversation, Harder and Willms were vocal about their initial skepticism about the political process. As political studies majors, they spent years analyzing, evaluating, and often judging the form and function of government. However, as they thought more about their desire to make a difference in their community, they became increasingly drawn to the internship program.

In Willm's instance, an independent study at CMU led her to conceptualize and draw political cartoons satirizing government officials. "In a way, I was doing critique from the public's view, so it'll be interesting to see the process from the inside," says Willms. "It'll be nice to feel like I'm a part of this large process. And thankfully, I wasn't drawing any MLAs," jokes Willms.

Harder and Willms aren't the first CMU graduates to participate in the program. Hannah Drudge (CMU '22) was among the select few chosen this past year. "Getting to be a part of the important work done in the Legislature was amazing," says Drudge. "I really felt like I was contributing—in a very small way, of course—to the democratic process."

She says that between the policy, research, communications, outreach, and legislative business, she was able to try on different vocational hats and fully explore, in-depth, what she learned through her time at CMU.

Nathan Dueck (CMU '21)—currently in law school and went through the internship just a few short years ago—says, "CMU prepared me by setting consistently high expectations for my writing throughout my degree. As a result, I went into the internship with a much more refined ability to write well and quickly than I would have had, I suspect, had I undertaken my undergraduate studies at any other school in the province."

"I really enjoyed the stress of [the program] and am now better equipped to work in high-pressure environments going forward. It was also really fun to hear MLAs deliver speeches that you played a role in drafting," says Dueck.

Harder says he's excited to see the tangible evidence of his hard work. He says, "It's cool to think that all these skills you build up can actually be used for something, to propel movements forward, create certain policies, and make a difference in people's lives. I'm excited to see the impact."

Jonathan Daman (CMU '17), a graduate of CMU's Redekop School of Business, was also selected to participate in the Manitoba Legislature Internship Program in 2018/19.

Male PV Hawks fall to Wpg. Thrashers, Wild

By Lorne Stelmach

The male U18 Pembina Valley Hawks dropped a pair of games to Winnipeg teams this past week.

After suffering a 4-1 loss to the Winnipeg Thrashers last Wednesday in Morden, the Hawks fell 6-3 to the Wild in Winnipeg Sunday.

Pembina Valley fell behind 3-0 in the first period against the Thrashers and couldn't recover from that deficit.

Ryler Gates stopped 31 of 35 shots on goal for the Hawks, who only managed to score once on their 23 shots, with Cohen Pilkington getting the lone Pembina Valley goal.

The Hawks then trailed 2-1 and 4-1 at the intermissions against the defending champion Wild.

Hawks goalie Ryler Gates secures the puck despite efforts to free it by Thrashers players in last Wednesday's game, which Winnipeg won 4-1.

Liam Goertzen did the goal scoring for the Hawks, while Haiden Friesen assisted on all three markers. Shots on goal were 40 to 27, with Bryson Yaschyshyn taking the loss with 34 saves.

Pembina Valley has slipped to ninth place now on a record of 11-14-3-4 for 29 points. They sit four and five ahead of Parkland and Yellowhead and one and two back of Norman and Eastman.

The Hawks have a busy weekend ahead with three games against the always tough Winnipeg teams. It starts with the Bruins in Winnipeg Friday then continues with the Thrashers Saturday and the Wild Sunday, with those games both happening in Morris.

Twisters tie franchise record with 12th consecutive victory

By Ty Dilello

The Pembina Valley Twisters tied their franchise record with their 12th consecutive win over the weekend. With the victories, the Twisters are staying firm into second place in the MMJHL's standings with a record of 20-8-2.

On Jan. 19, the Twisters were 5-2 winners at home over the St. Boniface Riels. Derek Wiebe led the charge for Pembina Valley with a pair of goals, while Merek Degraeve, Mike Heppner and Ryan Orchard had the other Twisters' tallies. Logan Enns stopped 32 shots in net for the win.

A few nights later, on the road on Jan. 21, the Twisters blasted the Stonewall Jets by a 5-1 count.

The offence was spread out as the Twisters' goals were scored by Orchard, Degraeve, Josh Guilford, Wiebe and Riley Goertzen. Owen LaRocque stopped 22 shots in the win.

"This weekend we were able to get two huge wins, as I think Friday night with St. Boniface was some of the best hockey we've played all year," said Twisters' head coach Braeden Beernaerts. "Sunday in Stonewall with a short bench I thought that we stayed patient, played our game and was able to open the game up in the third period with our powerplay scoring twice."

The Twisters recently added goaltender Larocque, who had been a member of the MJHL's Virden Oil Capitals for the past season and a half, into the fold. Larocque is 3-0-0 since joining the Twisters.

"We are extremely happy having Owen and Logan Enns on our team, and we are satisfied with both of our goaltenders in net," said Beernaerts.

Twisters' sniper Wiebe remains in third in the MMJHL's scoring race with 52 points in 30 games and Degraeve is in sixth with 48 points in 31 games, while Enns is currently fourth in the goalie rankings as he boasts a 2.98 goals-against average and a .913 save percentage.

The Twisters are back in action with a road game on Jan. 26 against the first-place St. James Jr. Canucks. The puck drops at 7:30 p.m.

"We are looking forward to our toughest test of the year on Friday and hope to keep the wins going."

Winkler Royals down Beavers 5-3

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The Winkler Royals were the only local team to post a win in SEMHL action last week.

In their first game after the holiday break, the Royals downed the Carman Beavers 5-3 Saturday night on the road.

Phil Letkeman contributed three goals to Winkler's tally, which was bolstered with additional goals from Brett Harder and Remi Laurencelle. Jayme Janzen got the win in net, making 39 saves as the Royals outshot the Beavers 51-42.

Saturday wasn't such a good night for the Altona Maroons, who fell to the Northstars in Ile Des Chenes 8-2. Justin Augert and Geordie Keane scored for Altona while Cole Kehler made 49 saves in net.

The Morden Bombers, meanwhile, battled the Aces in Ste. Anne Wednesday night.

Morden was up 3-1 after 40 minutes thanks to goals from Andrew Perrault, Mike Rey, and Evan Weurch.

The home team caught up in the third period, though, and then won it 19 seconds into overtime.

Reed Peters made 55 saves in net in the 4-3 OT loss for the Bombers, who lost the shots battle 59-35.

Finally, the Red River Wild bowed to the Notre Dame Hawks 2-1 Sunday afternoon.

Justin Giesbrecht scored the lone Wild goal in the first period to tie the game at 1-1. The Hawks then got what proved to be the game winner midway through the third.

The Wild outshot the Hawks 45-43, with Mark Friesen making 39 saves in net for Red River.

The standings at press time have Ste. Anne in first with 44 points, Warren in second with 26, and Red River in third with 21 points. Not far behind, in fourth, is Morden with 17 points.

Winkler (12 points) and Altona (seven points) are in eighth and ninth place, respectively, ahead of only Carman (six points).

This week, Altona hosts Portage Thursday and Notre Dame Saturday. Saturday also sees the Royals host the Bombers and the Wild host Ste. Anne.

OBITUARY

Kenneth Edward Friesen

Kenneth Edward Friesen, loving husband, father, brother and friend, passed away peacefully surrounded by his family and went to be with his Saviour Jesus Christ on January 11, 2024.

Ken was born in Altona on July 30, 1940 to Edward and Gertrude (nee Heppner) Friesen and was the eldest of five children. He started his childhood living on a grain farm north of the village, Horndean. In 1947, Ken and his family moved to Plum Coulee where they continued to farm grain.

In school, Ken loved playing baseball, hockey and football. Growing up, he always had fun adventures with his cousins, including water skiing behind a car in a water filled road ditch and driving to Kansas City to watch a baseball game.

On July 6, 1962, Ken married his sweetheart and love of his life, Susan Friesen, in a ceremony at the Mennonite Brethren Church in Winkler.

With a strong dedication to follow Jesus, Ken went to the Alberta Bible Institute in Camrose, Alberta and graduated in 1965. Ken applied his education, talents and faith in various ways from leading singing at church, teaching Sunday school, attending men's prayer breakfast to being a committed volunteer to help the Morden Christian Programs Committee right up until last year.

Ken and Sue farmed and raised their two boys, Jeff and Mike, in Manitou before moving to Morden in 1985. Ken's career evolved into real estate, trucking and sales. Ken sold recreational vehicles for Sun Valley RV in Winkler for 15 years before retiring at the age of 81.

Ken and Sue enjoyed meals with family and friends, traveling to warm places, curling and reading. They were passionate about cheering on sports together, especially their favorite teams, the Winnipeg Jets and Blue Bombers.

Every one who knew Ken will say he was a kind, gentle person with a heart for Jesus.

Ken was diagnosed with cancer in 2021. He continued his purpose into the halls of the hospital and care home greeting, introducing himself, "Hi, I'm Ken Friesen", and shaking hands with all those he met.

He will be lovingly missed by his family, wife Susan of 61 years; two sons, Jeff Friesen and Mike (Julie) Friesen; his three sisters Eileen Penner, Lynette (Lloyd) Penner, Lorna Friesen and brother, Blair Friesen.

OBITUARY

Mary Wiebe
1940 - 2024

Heaven gained a special angel Sunday afternoon, January 14 2024. Mom left this world with family by her side at Boundary Trails Health Centre after a short forty eight hour admission. She was born in Winkler, Manitoba.

She leaves to mourn her passing, her spouse Cornie David Wiebe; three children Brian (Kirby) Wiebe of Morden, Sherry Plett of Morden, Kim (Randy) Harder of Morden; as well as seven grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

She was predeceased by her parents Helen and Jacob Thiessen, one son-in-law Ray Plett and one grandson Kenton Harder.

Mom was born in Winkler, Manitoba and raised in the village of Schanzenfeld and enjoyed the village life. She attended the local school up to grade 8, she was not allowed to go to Winkler to attend high school as that was considered too worldly, because of this it was very important that her children graduate from high school. Her greatest wish was to see her five eldest great-grandchildren graduate, unfortunately God had other plans for her.

She was an only child and voiced many times how she wished she had a brother or sister, and that set the stage for who she was and her ability to make many friends in her lifespan. It also gave her the opportunity to spend many hours as a child with her Ginter grandparents. She often was in the company of her grandfather learning the trade of butchering and mechanics of vehicles. Mom was required to learn to change a tire, check the oil and back a trailer before she could get a drivers license. When her grandfather passed away it was very devastating for her and she was overwhelmed with sadness...just imagine their reunion in Heaven.

When it came to Christmas, Mom was very extravagant, she loved all the lights and sparkles. She said as a child growing up they never had a Christmas tree but she would go over to the neighbours "The Krahn's" and enjoy their big tree. She also helped her grandma Ginter decorate their tree and wrap presents Christmas Eve. Later in her early married life she would cut down her own tree alongside her mother-in-law Sarah Wiebe. Mom recalled two of her best and favourite gifts. One was a black pleated skirt and a pink blouse with ruffles and puffed sleeves, the other was a guitar she received when she was 11 years old. Her dad taught her to play the guitar and she loved music. She continued to play that guitar into adulthood and would often sing and strum to country music-mostly Johnny Cash-to her children. Her love of music never ceased.

Mom met the love of her life at the early age of 15. There was a large church gathering in a tabernacle set up in Morden, many of the villagers attended along with Mom and her parents. Mom and her friend decided to sneak out and were walking along Morden's main street enjoying the freedom. My dad and his friend, Ike Hoepfner, were cruising in a pickup truck. They spotted the young pretty girls and formed a friendship. Mom and Dad fell in love and were married October 6, 1957. The wedding was a big event with no limits. She would tell of the neighbours, her aunts, family and friends helping to make food for the 250 guests. Mom and Dad were baptized as a married couple in a creek south of Morden "The Dyck's" property by The Church Of God. In their early married life they made their home on the Wiebe homestead. They lived in Morden their whole life with one exception of a few years in Winnipeg. They went on to have three children.

Throughout her life Mom worked in the hospitality and retail sector. One of her first Winnipeg jobs was in 1962, working in a grocery store/post office. She said it was called "Gilliam's" and it had a men's club in the basement. The only time the women were allowed to enter the club was when they would make food for the men. She was very excited when she got the opportunity to do this as they would get tips of 200.00 dollars. She also worked at The Little Corner Store, Morden Shoe Store and M&A Fabrics in Morden. Mom continued her work in the food industry. She cooked in construction camps, fly in fishing camps and various restaurants. Mom's final job was owning and operating "Maryo's" a fast food restaurant in Morris. She made many friends doing what she did and was well liked. Mom retired at the age of 70. In 2011 Mom and Dad moved to her last home on Rampton Street.

A few of Mom's favourite past times over the years was being the catcher for Morden Ladies Baseball Team, curling, both participating as well as watching the Scotties Tournament of Hearts yearly. Mom was a community person, she was a leader in Tops, and Weight Watchers. She also participated in The Lady's Lioness Club of Morden. Mom loved to drive, she was not afraid to get in a vehicle and go. She got her motorcycle license in the early 1970's, she was a woman who enjoyed life and was not afraid of a challenge. Mom enjoyed her friends immensely and would get together with them as much as she could, she would spend hours playing Dice with Margaret Wiebe. The friends she made in Morris were very special to her and they supported and visited with her until the end. In later years you could always find Mom sitting in her favourite chair watching Jeopardy and Wheel of Fortune. Her love of flowers could be seen every year on Mom and Dad's yard. Mom spent many hours sitting at the kitchen table looking out onto the street. She loved to watch the neighbour's cats and dogs and really enjoyed the small children who came into the yard to look at her Christmas ornaments. Mom appreciated her neighbours. Her grandchildren and great-grandchildren were her whole world. She loved them unconditionally and was so very proud of them.

We as children appreciated many things about our Mom. She made sure we were always dressed well from the latest styles, fashion and new outfits for church, we never did without. Mom taught us to be entrepreneurs as well as hard workers. She was an encourager to her family and friends.

As all human beings, Mom wasn't without her shortcomings. In her last years Mom renewed her relationship with Jesus and grew in her walk with the Lord. Mom confessed with her mouth that Jesus was Lord and asked for forgiveness. Mom was so thankful that Dad stood by her and helped her and cared for her. Mom and Dad prayed together nightly before he tucked her in.

Mom, we love you and we will miss you, we know that you are in the arms of Jesus... see you later!

My heart, O God, is steadfast; I will sing and make music with all my soul.

Maryna Krut to perform in Morden next week

By Lorne Stelmach

An acclaimed young Ukrainian musician is coming to Morden as part of her first Canadian tour.

Maryna Krut is a renowned Ukrainian singer and songwriter who plays the traditional bandura but also writes and performs her own original material with a contemporary feel.

She is making three stops in Manitoba including a Jan. 31 performance in Morden as part of the tour which is raising funds to support Ukraine, and local organizer Yevgeniya Tatarenko is overjoyed to have Krut coming here.

"It will be an unbelievably cool concert," said Tatarenko, who noted the plan is for the show to be a candlelight concert.

"This is really something unique coming to Morden, so I am super excited about it."

Krut is originally from Khmelnytskyi, Ukraine. Her whole family had a talent for singing, but she is the only one who has pursued music professionally.

Her musical path began playing in places like garages before going on to play in bands and perform at a myriad of smaller events.

She was a finalist in a Eurovision Ukrainian contest, placing third in 2020 and second in 2023. She has also participated in the Ukrainian TEDx KyivWomen program, speaking about the fateful choices in her life and revealing her greatest passion.

Krut's live album made a shortlist of 10 best Ukrainian albums of the year. She is working on her third album and has released multiple singles, including collaborations with various Ukrainian artists.

The Voice of Ukraine and The X Factor participant delivers a unique combination of an atmospheric voice and the extraordinary musical elegance of the bandura, a stringed instrument widely considered the national musical instrument of Ukraine.

"She is amazing and unforgettable in what she does because she plays a traditional Ukrainian folk instrument, but she creates her own songs," said Tatarenko. "People have opened their hearts to this music because of her voice and the words she puts together ... and she has performed for the defenders on the front lines which is something you don't experience in your life."

Tatarenko noted Krut's music connects with a wide range of people because it is rooted in tradition but is also contemporary.

Ukrainian musician Maryna Krut brings her show to Morden Jan. 31 to raise funds to support troops in Ukraine.

"The audience who can enjoy her music is so wide," she suggested. "It's from young kids like my oldest son, who loves to listen to her music, and to older people who actually know more about the bandura and the classic musical education. They also love her."

"That's why she is so popular in Ukraine ... she does it everything all together."

The concert is raising funds for the Second Front Ukraine Foundation to help buy medical supplies and other supports.

It takes place at St. Pauls United Church at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 31. Tickets are available for $35 plus fees and can be purchased through Eventbrite. Tickets will also be sold at the door, space allowing.

Steps in HOPE support group starting new session

By Voice staff

The Pembina Valley Pregnancy Care Centre's support group for women who have experienced miscarriage and stillbirth begins another session next month.

Steps in HOPE (Healing Our Pregnancy Experiences) is a free and confidential support group that runs for seven weeks starting Feb. 8.

Sessions focus on sharing your experience with other women, learning to cope, cycles of grief, self-care, honouring your difficult journey, and creating a keepsake.

"Losing a baby can be one of the most difficult experiences anyone can go through and giving women a place to connect and share, knowing they aren't alone, is so important," says executive director Linda Marek. "Sometimes the pain is so deep, women grieve alone, maybe they have been told to just try again, or they feel misunderstood when they do take that brave step to be vulnerable about their experiences."

Pre-registration is required for Steps in HOPE. You can do so online at www.pvpcc.com/miscarriage-and-loss-support/ or by calling 204-325-7900.

Ask the money lady

Dear Money Lady Readers:

There is a type of magic that happens to each of us when we're "in the zone." This creative feeling comes instinctively to everyone when you give yourself over to the things you love. Everyone should take time for this if they want to reach their full potential. When I was younger I always wanted to be a ballerina, but that never happened because I just wasn't willing to be bad at it for as long as it would take to get good at it.

When you set a goal – whatever it is: to start a business, save for retirement, payoff all your debt or get your dream job, you should pick something you're really passionate about. You need to really want your goal enough to suffer through the bad times that inevitably will come to knock you off course. You're going to do things wrong; you're going to make bad investment decisions; you're going to have consumer debt; and if you're wanting that dream job, you may ask for a promotion and not get it. So now what?

The fact is, if you can't pick yourself up and start taking action to improve your situation, then who's going to do it for you? As sad it sounds, no one cares about your money, your life, or your future more than you do. What happens to your money and how you spend it directly affects the quality of your life, not my life, not your friend's life, not your financial planner's life – but only your life. You are the only one who can be what you want and have what you want. I tell you this (something we all know) to encourage you to summon that inner courage inside you and move towards the goal that you want. You already know you are the only one who has the power to attain it. If you have tried and failed, (no matter personal, business, or financial) always learn from it. Figure out where you made the mistakes, devise a plan to correct them, practice the corrections, and do it again. It's absolutely impossible for anyone to figure out everything ahead of time so perfectly that they are able to avoid making mistakes. We all must be willing to be wrong, willing to make mistakes and even willing to look foolish to break through the barriers for the success to come. Here are a couple of tips to get you to those personal and financial goals faster.

1. Give every debt you have an end-date. That means all loans and mortgages must be paid off by the year you retire. Restructure, refinance and re-amortize all debts to become distinguished upon that new date and make sure you never change this date, but instead make the payments necessary to meet this goal.

2. Get an Advisor not a salesperson. Not all advisors are the same. A good advisor needs to spend time with you to understand your needs. They need to build a plan that can withstand market declines. You want a plan to fill in the gaps and help you succeed with someone who calls you regularly (not waiting for you to call first) and is focused on your long-term goals. You must build a TEAM.

3. Lastly, believe you can. Your ability to earn an income is the fastest way for you to improve your lifestyle, save and become successful. Toss those inhibitions aside, burry your past shame, dump your fear. Only you can create the life you deserve, the one that you were born for – believe me, I've done it (it wasn't easy). You can too.

Good Luck & Best Wishes,
